WORKERS ADOPT SETTLEMENT AT MANVILLE

Manville, R. I., Sept. 3.—Cheering today at their victory, the 1,500 workers of the Manville-Jencks mill voted unanimously today at a mass meeting in the Central Theatre to ratify the settlement made by their leaders.

Many of them were put back to work in the plant at noon and the rest will return on Tuesday. Simultaneously with the formal settlement of the strike, militiamen on guard at the "Bridge of Death" leading to the mill began receiving machine guns and defense fortifications.

A General Order of the National Guard said that a small detachment of troops might be left on duty "because of certain information that outside disturbances could be expected." He said he believed the disorders were caused by these "outsiders" rather than strikers.

A celebration of the victory was held by the workers on Labor Day at the bridge, some of stoning and shooting, when State police fired on a mob and four persons were injured.

PANDEMONIUM REGION.

Hate was hurled in the air, pandemonium reigned and the building vibrated to strains of martial songs as the strikers received official notification from labor leaders at the mass meeting that the company agreed to remove from the local plant the non-union loomfitters whose presence was the bone of contention that prolonged the strike.

Union leaders declared it was the first time in eight years that the Manville-Jencks company had backed down in any respect to trouble with the employees. Settlement was credited chiefly to Governor Fother of Rhode Island at whose office in Providence representatives of both sides reached the tentative agreement that was ratified today by the strikers.

48-HOUR LAW

Through the strike, the employees succeeded in forcing a reversion of the 48-hour working week, the removal of non-union loomfitters and the promise of company officials to

1 HELD, 2 DIE, IN SURGERY CASE

Washington, Pa., Sept. 3 (U.P.).—William Bergher, 34, surrendered to authorities here today, and was held in $5,000 on charges of being an accessory in the death of Margaret Foley, 35, society girl. Dr. Roger D. Perry, prominent local physician, committed suicide in his cell after arrest in connection with the case.

Bergher appeared before Alderman J. R. Crichton with his attorney and county officials.

11 COTTAGES AT BEACH BURN

No. 26 Hillside road, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonald of Cambridge.

The fire started in Leonard's cottage, where Burke was the occupant. His sister and her children were visiting Burke.

Almost before they suspected that anything was wrong, the occupants were huddled in a blast of flame and belch of black smoke.

Frighted, the four people raced for the open air, but when Burke and Mrs. Dehan found themselves outside the burning building, they were not with them.

The mother wound and dashed back into the burning building, with her brother at her heels. But the flames and smoke were too much for them and they were compelled to jump, landing just as the children, faces blackened by smoke, emerged to safety.

Harold White, fifteen, of Yampson street, first saw flames leaping from the Leonard cottage, and then the fire spread through the section. Residents began to prepare to move out of the district, as the flames threatened to overcome the efforts of the firemen.

It took a quarter of a mile away from the scene of the fire. The spectacular blaze attracted a throng of autoists and vacationists to the scene.

Fanned by a brisk east wind, the flames leaped high into the air, while a dense curtain of smoke hung over the section.

TWO ALARMS GIVEN.

Two alarms were sounded in rapid succession. Within two minutes after the first alarm was turned in, firemen under Chief Stevens were at the scene.

A curtain of water thrown around the burning cottages, prevented the fire from spreading through the densely populated hill section.

The Craig cottage was occupied by Mrs. James Dunn of Worcester, and a woman companion. They fled the building before it became enveloped in flame.

and began its sitting at 11 o'clock with Herbert M. Warren called as the first witness.

Many of the contractors were accompanied by friends and the bus of conversation outside the grand jury room resembled the preliminary to a political convention. Considerable curiosity was expressed as to what form the probe would take.

This curiosity was increased when it was learned that the Finance Commission was conducting a separate investigation of paving contracts and had requested the district attorney to loan some of his witnesses.

Another site was caused when the first witness proved to be Guy W. Emerson, consulting engineer of the F.B. Co., who was accompanied into the grand jury room by District Attorney O'Brien.

The contractors summoned were Martin F. Gaddis, Henry Sharpe, Joseph Tomassello, Joseph A. Signarella, Jeremiah J. McCarthy, Martin de Matteo, Dennis E. Coleman, Frank M. McCourt and Henry F. Mailey.

The books of the Warren Co. were ordered into court after the district attorney had been unsuccessful in his efforts to have them submitted to his public accountant, Edwin L. O'Brien called for ledgers, bills and purchase books, check books and cancelled checks of the Warren Bros. companies of Massachusetts and West Virginia, both of which do business in Boston. The companies were ordered to submit all books and papers as far back as June 1919.

At 8:15 they were approximately four miles off Gila Net, swimming strongly.

Two of the six women charged with illegal sale of intoxicants pleaded guilty.

The defendants who pleaded guilty were:

Miss Grace Warren and Fred A. Cushman, Worrick Inn, Atlantic Hill, $100 each.

Harry Amos, Strada Pond Hotel, $100.

The first effort to reschedule Nantasket's rum supply for the holiday failed today when Chief Washington I. James of Hingham and a squad of men seized a truckload of beer.

The driver, giving his name as Edward T. Earl, was held on a charge of illegal transportation. Police broke a blockade around the beach resort in an effort to prevent the arrival of new supplies.

Residents of the summer resort, many of them fashionable women, flocked to the Hingham courthouse today to see the arraignment.

The seaside resort was thorough in its efforts when the city or more members of the State constabulary, wearing bellows clothes arrived in automobiles. Large amounts of liquor, ranging from home brew to champagne, was seized and loaded into two huge trucks and transported to the Middleboro State Constabulary Barracks. A total of 17 cottages, bars, hotels and more were visited.

Human Sin Back of Hall Slaying, Says Sunday

'BEAUTY MADE VICTIM OF VICE,' DECLARES EVANGELIST

(The Boston Evening American presents today another article by the Rev. W. A. (Billy) Sunday, the most forceful evangelist in the world. The Rev. Mr. Sunday treats the mysterious Hall murder case with attention concentrated solely on its moral aspect.)

By

W. A. Sunday

A thousand newspapers tell the "latest news" of the strange shocking and mysterious case known as the "Hall murder mystery."

Big headlines tell of FINGERPRINTS, CLUES, SUSPICIONS, a revolver planted to deceive the police, testimony of servants and neighbors.

MILLIONS READ, how MANY THINK?

How many ask themselves what really CAUSED that Hall murder?

What WAS it that sent the Reverend Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, a single in the chair, to their death and to judgment?

The world has heard from two of the courts established here on Earth.

When the widow of the murdered clergyman was locked up at midnight, taken to court and granted. The law said, "Produce $10,000 as a guarantee, and you may go free."

The widow is free from the prison, depending further developments of the trial.

Next came the arrest of the widow's brother, and of her cousin, charged with guilty knowledge or complicity in the murder.

By and by will come the trial, and in due course the whole world will know the result.

Big headlines will shriek "GUILTY" or "NOT GUILTY."

Each citizen will form his opinion as the case progresses. The law and decency forbid any comment that would even an anticipation of the court's decision.

When it comes we shall all know.

We watch the murder trial and the prize fights and stock market news, the various land booms and all the other happenings. And we are all interested in what is happening.

WHAT ABOUT OURSELVES? The real Hall trial will not be here on earth, but ABOVE the Earth.

The court to which Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, the woman, went four years ago is a court through which we ALL must pass. A majority of us, by God's mercy keep out of earthly courts, but none of us will escape the high court above.

and up there YOU CAN'T LIE. There is no perjury there, no hired witnesses, no "experts" to prove that you were crazy, or that you didn't know what you were doing.

There, everything is transparent as clear as crystal. The soul of each of us will stand penetrated through and through by the X-ray of eternal justice. Only one thing will help us when

Grill Stevens on Hall-Mills Alibi

Tom's River, N. J., Sept. 8.—The alibi of Henry Stevens, already said by the authorities to be wavering, will be put under close fire today in the Hall-Mills case investigation.

Criminologist Alexander Simpson, a special investigator, and Sheriff John A. Grant of Ocean County will question those whose statements so far have assisted the prosecution in the case of the murder of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

It is estimated, it is likely that the investigation concerning him will be discontinued and that the prosecution will turn in the direction of preparing the present case for trial if the Grand Jury indicates.

TO DRAW GRAND JURY.
The members of the Grand Jury will be drawn today at the Somerville County Court House.

Curiously enough, it develops Sheriff Sanford W. Tunison, who will be in charge of the selection of the new Grand Jury, was himself a member of the Grand Jury which heard the first Hall-Mills case at Somerville.

Upon the outcome of the answers of these witnesses probably will hang the fate of Stevens, who is admittedly a suspect. If his alibi is shattered it is likely that Stevens will be ordered at once to stand trial.

Should Stevens be arrested, he probably will be confined in Somerville Jail with his brother, Willie Stevens, and his cousin, Henry De la Beyerne Carpenter.

Upon the other hand, should his

Residents of the section had protested to Neal that the presence of the new gas station would be a nuisance.

TC5 Cheats Storm Over 'Death Trail'

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 8 (A.P.)—After riding out electrical and thunder storms during the greater part of the night in pitch darkness and soaked with rain, Lieutenant W. A. Gray and his crew of four brought the army blimp TC5 into safe landing at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., near here shortly after 6 a. m. today.

It was the first anniversary of the Shenandoah disaster, when that craft, much larger than the TC5, crashed and crashed on Ohio hills. It brought to an end a night of suspense on the part of many interested in the TC5's flight, the first inland voyage by a government blimp since the ill-fated flight of the Shenandoah.

The usefulness of these waiting for the ship's arrival did not end there. Lieutenant Gray, arising from the breakfast table, told about it.

"Shortly after leaving Dayton Thursday night," he said, "we ran into a heavy electrical and rain storm. It was about forty miles from Indianapolis. We encountered electrical disturbances all night. When we were in electrical storms we usually were worried."

"We were driven north of our course about fifty miles and hung over the Mississippi River until dawn. We were not lost, for we practically knew our bearings."

"The night was so black and thick we could not see ahead of us," Lieutenant Gray said, "but we knew we were not far from Scott Field. The cars are not enclosed and we became soaked."

The engine functioned perfectly through the night, Gray said, and estimated that they had run about thirty-six hours since the ship left its base at Langley Field, Va., Wednesday.

Accompanying Lieutenant Gray were Lieut. R. E. Laster, and Warrant Officer R. E. Laster, who acted as pilot, and Sergeant Quinn and Johnson, engineers. None suffered ill effects of the night's buffeting against the elements.

GAS SUPPLY LOW.
Gray said rough weather was desired for the flight to prove the ship's stability to withstand the elements. He ascribed for the success of the flight to the fact that the TC5 is shorter than the Shenandoah.

'CAL' GOES 40 MILES TO FISH

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Sept. 8 (A.P.)—President Coolidge had an eight breakfast today and drove nearly forty miles across the mountains to fish on the Allegheny River.

Although the season for all favorite fish closed September 1 in Franklin County, in which his angling heretofore been done, trout fishing is permitted in Essex County until next Tuesday, and so the chief executive chose one of the most waters in that county for his expedition with rod and reel.

Accompanied by his guides, two secret service men, Mr. Coolidge motored to a spot about 15 miles east of Lake Placid village, planning to return to White Pine Camp in time for luncheon.

For a day they stand out in the print—two days—a week—then they are gone, giving way to new faces and new names, and only the dusty files and the yellowing clippings saved in the reference library remain in the way of record.

Years later someone hazards a question such as: "I wonder what's become of So-and-so," but rarely is there any answering of the query.

PHILIP'S NEWSIES
Excerpt in the case of Armand T. Gaudreau, college graduate, who sold Boston Evening Americans on the streets of Boston just five years ago when he was unable to get work. Fresh from the University of Maine he had vainly sought employment in Lewiston, Me., in New York and in Boston before he became desperate and took to selling papers in his college city and gown.

In two days of selling he received scores of offers of jobs. Then he, too, dropped out of the news—until today.

Today he walked into the Boston Evening American office with a wife, a prosperous air and a story already abundantly beginning with his experience as a newsboy.

CLIMBS TO SUCCESS
From a Boston banking position he advanced into a better one with the Standard Oil Company of New York, went up one more notch under the banner of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company of New York, shifted over to the Barrett Company, New York manufacturers of roofing material, and, having meanwhile advanced business administration degree at New York University, is now economist for that concern.

His wife, whom he met in New York, is a daughter of the Marquis de Southville-Chauvigny, former professor of French at Harvard. This is the story of the news after a spectacular whirl of a few days but who came back again.

2 DIE OF PLAGUE AFTER QUAKE IN AZORES

Lisboa, Azores, Sept. 2.—Two have been four cases of bubonic plague and two deaths from the disease since last Tuesday's disastrous earthquake, in which it is estimated 1,500 houses were destroyed and at least 35 persons were killed and several hundred injured.

The Governor of the islands, who also is a physician, told "The Associated Press" today that the general sanitary situation was satisfactory and that the two remaining bubonic victims had been isolated.

The government has commandeered all food supplies and is avoiding boarding and profiteering. The people are to live outdoors, as the quakes have made it impossible to quickly rebuilding demolished houses.

WATER SCARCE

Bursting of water mains has necessitated rationing water from the limited reservoir. All through the island, the people are being urged to conserve water and to use it sparingly.

The quake caused the American consul, Reinhold E. Cuddeback, at his morning shave. He rushed into the back garden with a wrench and a secret from where he witnessed his own and his wife's house being wrecked and other houses falling amid clouds of dust.

"The river which passes through the suburb of Flamengos," an eyewitness continued, "was suddenly engulfed in an enormous crevasse and a number of small boats sailing in the stream disappeared. The crevasse quickly closed and where the river once flowed there remains a mass of scorching earth."

PEOPLE TERRIFIED.
"People, terrified, fell to their knees and prayed loudly in the streets."
"Four hundred houses crumbled within a few minutes. The Flamengos crevasse collapsed three seconds after the houses had rushed outside to safety."

MUSICIANS TO QUIT THEATRES

San Francisco, Sept. 3 (U.N.S.).—The situation in the local theatre strike was today as follows:
Union officials announce that effective next Sunday, all Orpheum theatres in the country will be without revues, stars, bands and movie operators.
Managers of theatres indicate they may close Saturday, either by union action or as a protest by theatre owners against the strike. This action, it is hinted, if carried into effect, would take in show houses in Los Angeles and perhaps other cities of California.
Open-shop policy loomed as a possibility on the part of theatre managers, once they are completely organized.

WIDOW HELD IN SUDDEN DEATH

Albany, Ky., Sept. 3 (U.N.S.).—The preliminary trial of Mrs. Doris Burckhardt, accused of slaying her husband, was pending the arrival of a chemist from the University of Kentucky to examine the stomach of the aged victim for evidence of poisoning.
In addition to Burckhardt's young widow, her parents and a farm hand, are held in connection with Burckhardt's mysterious death. He died August 31, under circumstances indicating poison.
Chief of Car Killers Boy

LLOYD PANTAGES SEEMS TO BE LIKE VALENTINO

By LOUELLA G. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Lloyd Pantages is determined not to let his father's prestige be his sole prop in the motion picture field. He has always wanted to be a motion picture actor but did not feel that he should gain his fortune merely because of his father's position. He sees Lloyd's dad happens to be Alexander Pantages, the theatrical magnate, who could have granted his boy's desire to enter the movies without any trouble. But Lloyd refused to let his father use his influence.
Without any letters of introduction and any telephone urging, Lloyd went to the Fox Company himself, and had a series of tests made. When William Fox saw them he commented on the resemblance to Rudolph Valentino and asked his name.
Not only was Lloyd given a contract for a series of domestic comedies but he is promised a chance at drama. I haven't seen his test, but I am told he bears a surprising resemblance on the screen to Valentino. He is somewhat smaller in stature, dark olive skinned and slender.

LOS ANGELES 'V' DEDICATED

Los Angeles, Sept. 3 (U.N.S.).—Without fault there can be no victory. Here you seek by means of this new building to fortify our faith. We thank you.
Secretary of the Navy Withers in these few words summed up his address at the dedication of the $100,000 T. M. C. A. building at Los Angeles harbor.
The dedication ceremonies followed a parade of 4,000 sailors, soldiers and marines.

Salt 'Poison' to the Mind and Body, Says Doctor

Paris, Sept. 3 (A.P.).—Danger to the mind and the body lurks in the salt cellar. So says Dr. Jean Bouchon, an eminent French neurologist.
In an article in the Nouvelle Revue, Dr. Bouchon says salt is one of the worst of modern social poisons. It is the cause of hypertension, gastric ulcer, and liver troubles.

ABUSE REPLIES ONLY EXPENSE

Cincinnati, W. H., Sept. 3.—Betting abuse was the most expensive part of Judge James W. Rankin's campaign for United States senator.

WHEN NORMA TALMADGE first indicated that she was eager to do a modern version of "Camille" and published it in this column, there were those who thought the story was something like the old tale of "Romeo and Juliet"—merely good publicity.

But the scotters will not have to take back their unjust thoughts, for within four weeks Norma will begin work on "Camille." Norma De Graess and Chandler Sprague are now burning the midnight oil to get the adaptation of Dumas' classic ready for Fred Niblo who will direct her.

"The Dove" will follow "Camille" almost immediately. Paul Bern and Wallace Smith are already at work in the adaptation of the play, which was produced by David Belasco with Judith Anderson and Holbrook Blinn in the leading roles. Roland West is slated to direct Norma in it.

THE EXTRAS DO GET A CHANCE once in a while. I am glad to make this statement right out in print for I have so often said that I have considered the best way to stardom was via the extra route.

Just to prove my point, Jacqueline Gaudin who played a small part in "The Merry Widow" and "Men and Maid" was singled out of the crowd and given the important role of Theresa, the wife of Dakkar, played by Lionel Barrymore in "The Mysterious Island." Miss Gaudin is blonde.

Another Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer extra in Valentino Zimlin, who has worked for three years in the ranks without any recognition until she played in "La Boheme." She is a brunette and has been chosen for an important role in "The Mysterious Island."

JUST OFF HAND I would have said that Tom Moore had played in every studio in Hollywood, as he is so sought after as a leading man.

Yet yesterday I was told, that for the first time in his life he has played the makeup at the Universal lot. He draws the lead in "Beware of Widows." La Plante's next opus to be directed by Millard Webb.

TRUDY GIVEN KEY TO CITY AT PHILADELPHIA
Philadelphia, Sept. 3 (U.N.S.).—Gertrude Ederle, first woman swimmer to swim the English channel, received a reception that rivalled those Dempsey and Tunney had had a few days ago, when she swung off the New York train in Broad street station here.

In City Hall she was welcomed by Mayor Kendrick and given a golden key to the city.
She then was whisked down a back alleyway to the Mayor's own automobile. From City Hall the party proceeded down Broad street to the municipal auditorium. Clattering multitudes lined both sides of the street, the entire downtown.

ADVICE TO A WOMAN CAVE DAUGHTER

(Editor's Note: Now, for the first time, the true background of the appalling Bath-Bills murder is disclosed in all its secret details by the one person who knows them best—Charlotte Mills, daughter of the murdered woman. In yesterday's chapter, Miss Mills told of the dark existence of her family in their poor little home in New Brunswick, N. J. Even then, she was admitting, was better than the suffering she has borne since that terrible day four years ago when her mother was found slain beside the body of the Rev. Edward F. Hall under a heavy overhanging tree.

Those four years of suffering by this innocent young girl have found their first expression in this moving story of her life, "My Story," by Charlotte Mills, is an extraordinary revelation of life. Read in today's chapter the advice her poor mother gave her about marriage, and how the wealthy Rev. Hall used to visit her romance-starved mother in her little home.

CHAPTER 2—SCHOOL DAYS

She was a disciplinarian. Mother was both of us, my brother Danny and me. She came of German people, the Reinhardts, a big family, seven girls and four boys. My grandfather Reinhardt was a watchman and used to be very little for all that family, and they didn't live much, I can tell you. They were brought up pretty well.

Although they all finished grammar school and some went on to high school, because of the size of the family they were not so soon as they could. My mother never quite finished high school. She was always bright and awfully keen on learning. Rev. Hall broke her heart to have to leave school. Shortly after she left school she married.

She was crazy about music and always had the dream of being a singer. She had a pretty soprano voice and later on she sang in lessons but there wasn't enough money and she had to stop before she finished the course. She wasn't happy in the family. There were so many in the family. She had a girl friend and one night was riding back and the girl friend said, "There's my brother Jim coming down the street; he'll see you home. It's too late for you to go alone in this rain."

MARRIED AT 16

Mother was 16, and that was her first meeting with the Rev. Hall. He liked her nearly everybody liked mother she was beautiful, pretty and social, with beautiful, dark eyes, brown hair that curled naturally, and perfectly lovely mouth. She did it on an impulse, because she thought it was a way out. It's terrible how girls do such things. She always said to me,

"Charlotte, listen, I'll never do what I did. Think what you are about. Keep a head on you. Go into the future. And when you marry, marry a man that feels the same way as you do about things. Promise me."

And I used to promise her, before I knew hardly what she was talking about. Mother also used to look at me and say, "Charlotte, you're going to have a hard time when I'm gone. Poor kid, you're going to have an awful time. I'm afraid. Try to remember what I've told you about everything. I think of that often now, and cry and cry. Mother spoiled me a lot. I guess it's always that way with the first child. She used to make me white dresses for me and try to curl my hair over her fingers with a wet brush. My hair was dark and almost cream-colored, but it wouldn't curl and it always disappointed her. Her hair curled naturally but it was dark.

LITTLE TRIPS ALONE

When she had me all dressed up she'd let me go to see my grandfather Reinhardt. They lived about a block from us then. A trip on one of the streets I had. Mother was afraid of the city, but I used to yell and carry on terrible if she didn't let me go, and after a while she found I could manage it all right, little as I was. Mother was happy when I got old enough to go to school. One of the things I'll never forget is Mother saying about a thousand times, "I want you to have what I did," and she used to get out of patience because I was so dumb in my studies.

"MOTHER WAS STRAIT"

Another thing I hated was when she made me join serious things like the Audubon Society Club in school. I didn't want to read about birds and nature. I'd rather have played and with my toys and dolls. Of course I did play, but Mother always made me do the other stuff first. Once, over on ————, I saw him over the land with a rifle, and when I came out in the way she was so sorry that she cried and hugged me and cried and said I could go any place I liked. There was a serial movie being shown near our house, and I never let me go to the movies. There were always crimes and mysteries, and she said it was no place for a little girl. I often think of that now. ———— told me so, and I had a regular "roar." I'd have been willing to go along with the roller every day if it'd let me go to the movies. I've got all over that now. I don't care for them.

LITTLE TREATS

If Mother was a little bit strict with us, sometimes she always made up for it with some indulgence. She liked to give us surprises, if she wasn't home when

MILLS GIRL AT WORK ON HER LIFE STORY

TELLS ALL ABOUT MOTHER

Charlotte tells of her happy school days in the second chapter which appears in today's Boston Evening American.

Dan and I came in from school, and sometimes find a note: "Children! Look in the oven and you will find two dumplings. One is for Charlotte and one is for Dan, and they are just alike. Mother."

She knew if they weren't just alike or was bigger, we'd fight, for we were crazy over dumplings. She made them out of jelly and the crust that was left over from the pie for dinner, or the apple Kuchen now!

Always two big square pans about two inches deep, with apples cut in half spread over the dough, and lots of butter spread over them. Mmm-m, how they used to smell, baking!

Mother always made several. Sometimes she would take one over to the church to Rev. Hall and he'd eat it in the study and sometimes he would come to our house and we children would watch him eat every crumb.

He always laughed a lot over his "big appetite" and would pretend to lick off his fingers and chin and beg for more. I know he liked it for he never let a single bit go to his plate.

But we didn't always find dumplings and apple cakes in the oven when we got home from school. Sometimes all we found was a note on the blackboard that said in the kitchen. Mother drew a chalk mark down through the middle of the board. Over one side was written "Charlotte" and over the other "Daniel" and then she'd write a list of the things I was to do, and the things Dan was to do.

In tomorrow's fascinating chapter of "MY STORY," Charlotte Mills gives a truly intimate picture of the unconventional Rev. Hall and tells how as a child she viewed the way his father.

OLD CROWN IN SCRAMBLE TO HONOR RUDY

Attempt in Vain to Board the Valentino Funeral Car
at Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3 (I.N.S.)—Bearing the body of Rudolph Valentino, the lake shore limited arrived here at 3:25 this morning and departed fifteen minutes later for Chicago.

A crowd of several hundred persons was gathered at the Union Station and a mad but unsuccessful scramble ensued for a glimpse of the casket containing the remains of the screen star.

On the train are Alberto Giglioli, Valentino's brother; Mr. and Mrs. George Ullman, and Pola Negri. An immense throng of admirers from the Cleveland theatres was added to those already covering the casket. No one was permitted to board the train, George Ullman, Valentino's manager, explaining that Miss Negri was in a highly nervous condition and under the care of a nurse.

Miss Negri is maintaining a close watch over the body from her compartment, which is next to the improvised sanctuary in which the casket lies.

"Covering the bier is a huge cloth of gold mail, costing $5,000."

In These 'Day Dreams' Rudy Put His Soul

Intriguing and fascinating were the visions that came to Rudolph Valentino in his idle moments as he dreamed so he wrote and put them together in a little book he named "Day Dreams."

Today the third installment of the book is printed. It portrays the "greatest love" from a different angle and pictures in words many of his longings and desires unsatisfied.

To read this outpouring of his soul is to know Valentino's better and have a clearer understanding of him as a man.

Each has a particular gift to bring.
It may be the wealth
Of the thrilling adventure
Of the simple life
Perhaps it is a present
Of the golden

Maybe a view
Of old days

Flowers ways,
And again a journey
To lands afar,
Where strange things happen,
And wonders are.

All of them—Gift Books
But plainly, I see,
Not one of them holds
The gift for me.

I want a book
That will lead me
Down the dark pathway
To follow back home.

EXPLOSIVE BITES FOR VALENTINO AS CATHOLIC

Hartford Church Paper Says
He Had to Give Up Both
Wives and Pola

Hartford, Ct., Sept. 3 (A.P.)—Rudolph Valentino, late screen star, is the subject of the leading editorial in the Catholic Transcript, which explains his burial from a Catholic church.

The article says in part:

"Valentino had certain things to give up before he could receive absolution."

"He would have to promise to give up certain women whom he called his wives and break certain engagements which other women say that he had made with them."

"Having satisfied the minister of the absolving power that he was sorry for the past and prepared to amend the future, if a lease of life were granted, he could receive the sacraments."

A reader of the Transcript wrote a letter to the editor saying that he was under the impression that a divorced person could not be admitted to the church. The editor explains that "there can be no divorce with the right of remarriage in the Catholic Church," then adds:

"The transcript is not familiar with the biography of the late Valentino. His private and public record is not known here. He had had a divorce from his first wife and had acquired the marriage and divorce habit so much as to give up his first wife. The habit is a bad one and one that neither apostles nor recognized by the Catholic church."

"The state, or statute, of the late Valentino's conscience at the time of his death was known to the priest who attended him and prepared him for eternity, and not to the general public."

HUNT 2 MISSING FLIERS IN PENNSYLVANIA HILLS

Philadelphia, Sept. 3 (I.N.S.)—The mountains of Western Pennsylvania, resounded by airplane pilots as one of the worst regions in bad weather, were being searched again today for missing aviators. Recently Cyrus K. Beatty, a crack army flier, lost his life there last night.

The present search is for Lloyd Spahrman and George Wells, of Wichita, Kan., who took off from Pittsburgh Wednesday for the national air races that open here Saturday.

THREE OHIO SLAYERS MEET DEATH IN CHAIR

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—Within the space of forty-five minutes three murderers were executed in the electric chair, the first triple execution in Ohio's history. They were convicted of the murder of James McConner for $10.

John Bryant, a negro, was the first to die. He was followed by Richard Rhodes and John Hendrick, white. The white men said Bryant employed them to do the killing.

Miss Keryl made her debut on the concert stage several years ago and received favorable notices from the critics. Her father, Bohemian Keryl, composer, was ambitious for her to have a career, so he promised her $100,000 if she would wait until she was 20 before marrying.

A year ago Miss Keryl went to Berlin to improve her technique and there she met Iladi-Kyriakos, a musician. "It was love at first sight," she said in explaining how her visions of $100,000 went glimmering.

When she told her father she preferred her lover to the bonus he placed on spinsterhood, Keryl was disappointed, finally relented.

GIRL RISKS $100,000 FOR LOVE; WINS BOTH

New York, Sept. 3 (A.P.)—The Greek suitor for whom Marie Keryl, young Chicago pianist, risked losing $100,000, has come to claim her as his bride.

He arrived on the Near Chicago, and Miss Keryl, who was waiting at the dock for him, will soon become Mrs. Spiro Iladi-Kyriakos.

PROBE TROLLEY WRECK IN WHICH EIGHT DIED

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 3 (A.P.)—William Owen of Toledo, veteran musician, will be questioned by officials of the Detroit Union Rail Road Company as to why he failed to wait on a siding for a south-bound car on the same line as the responsibility for a collision near here, which resulted in the loss of eight lives and injury to more than twenty-five other persons.

Both cars were telescoped into such a compact mass of wreckage that it was necessary for an incident apart with axmen trying to complete the search for bodies.

GOV. AL SMITH SAYS HE'S "MUCH BETTER"

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 3 (I.N.S.)—Governor Al Smith was back at the executive mansion today feeling "much" better, he said, but determined to take a good rest over the weekend.

He was taken ill at Syracuse on Wednesday night, where he had gone to speak at the State Fair. He attended the fair yesterday, but refrained from making an address. The Governor's illness was caused by the bursting of an incident on his back where he had a mole removed last week.

GILDA GRAY ON WILD DANCES

Back to Adam and Eve!
That's the course the world has taken, although the world doesn't know it, according to Gilda Gray, famous dance-doll star who has arrived in Boston to appear at the Metropolitan Theatre, in conjunction with showing of her first starring motion picture, "Aloma of the South Seas."

"The wild youth getting tamer?" Miss Gray was asked.
"Not at all," she replied. "Wild youth is getting wilder. Don't imagine that the climax has been reached. The climax probably never will be reached in this generation."

MORE PRIMITIVE
"Each year we are becoming more primitive. We may want to become more primitive, but that will make no difference. We will continue to become so just the same."

"History moves in cycles. First, there is the fundamental man. Then comes the veneer of civilization. After that, the fundamental man returns. That is why we dance, saving as they do of the spectacle of human life. We are fascinated both by the child and the shrewdly rustic."

SHES OLD FOLKS
"The children of today know more about life than their parents. That is because the time has arrived when they must know more. They are forced to do the opposite of what they are told to do."

"The young people express their rebellion by their dances. Just as they break away from the moral standards of their parents, they break away from the old standards of their parents."

"I feel that I am expressing the spirit of the age by my dancing. Why should I seek to express the spirit of the age? The present represents the vitality and freedom of the young."

WILDER DANCES
"Dances will be wilder, because they will be closer to nature. I mean that the American dance of the future will express the vitality and vigor which is the American spirit."

Gilda, who represents so strikingly the consummation of brilliant youth, confessed that she wanted to be a mother and have a family on a country farm.

"I don't know if I would like to learn about Broadway, I should like to learn about the life in the country," she says. "I could not imagine the life of a hectic night life knows the beauty of a peaceful country life."

STANFIELD TO RUN AS AN INDEPENDENT
Portland, Ore., Sept. 3 (A.P.)—United States Senator James H. Stanfield, defeated for re-election in the May primary election, has been nominated as an independent candidate for re-election in November.

Senator Stanfield repeated charges of "unfair tactics" in the primary campaign. He attributed his defeat in part to the circulation of a "yellow ticket," which listed him among candidates allegedly induced by the Klu Klux Klan. Senator Stanfield, elected in 1918, was defeated by Frederick Steiwer.

GILDA SEES YOUTH GETTING WILDER

Gilda Gray, now in Boston to appear with her first starring film, "Aloma of the South Seas," says the climax of wild youth will not be reached in this generation. The world is far from becoming tamer, she says. Wild youth will become wilder and wild dances will take a similar course, according to Gilda's reasoning.

LORD DARLING IN HUB SUNDAY

Boston will, on Sunday, get its first glimpse of Britain's leading aviator, Lord Darling of the "Air." Lord Darling, who is expected to reach the Hotel Kemmons for a short visit, is a member of the King's privy council. Boston citizens of English and Canadian origin, it is understood, plan to make the visit of Lord and Lady Darling a continuous round of pleasure. He will also be entertained by leading Boston jurists and will, if he so desires, be given an opportunity of visiting Boston courts to observe American customs on the bench.

The distinguished couple are now in Canada from where they are to depart on Saturday, according to present plans. They will be met by representatives of the British government, where an informal reception will be tendered them.

The world is far from becoming tamer, she says. Wild youth will become wilder and wild dances will take a similar course, according to Gilda's reasoning.

LORD DARLING IN HUB SUNDAY

Boston will, on Sunday, get its first glimpse of Britain's leading aviator, Lord Darling of the "Air." Lord Darling, who is expected to reach the Hotel Kemmons for a short visit, is a member of the King's privy council. Boston citizens of English and Canadian origin, it is understood, plan to make the visit of Lord and Lady Darling a continuous round of pleasure. He will also be entertained by leading Boston jurists and will, if he so desires, be given an opportunity of visiting Boston courts to observe American customs on the bench.

The distinguished couple are now in Canada from where they are to depart on Saturday, according to present plans. They will be met by representatives of the British government, where an informal reception will be tendered them.

3 (A.P.)—Captain J. R. Laney, pilot, and his wife, Mrs. Laney, were burned to death, and Arnold, Kennel, were critically wounded when a small airplane, in which they were flying, crashed into a building at Rockham and burst into flames.

The plane, a biplane, was owned by Roger to London. It was flying from Rockham to Boston, and was on its way to Rockham when it crashed. The plane was carrying four people, including the pilot and his wife.

GILDA SEES YOUTH GETTING WILDER

Gilda Gray, now in Boston to appear with her first starring film, "Aloma of the South Seas," says the climax of wild youth will not be reached in this generation. The world is far from becoming tamer, she says. Wild youth will become wilder and wild dances will take a similar course, according to Gilda's reasoning.

U.S. GUNBOAT IS HIT BY CHINESE

Hongkong, Sept. 3 (A.P.).—The United States gunboat Sacramento has been hit by bullets in lad's-criminate firing by Canton strike pickets on passenger and freight vessels plying to and from Hong.

JURY ON TRAIL OF LAWYERS

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Lawyers who defend criminals in New York courts will be held to strict accountability for any unprofessional conduct in delaying trials, if recommendations of the New York county Grand Jury are carried out. The regular grand jury also recommended that the English system of limiting time for appeals be adopted in the State, and that officials co-operate in securing heavier sentences for convicted criminals.

Fake 'Vodoos' and 'Seers' Are Flayed for Frauds by Magician Houdini

MAKING THE MYSTERIOUS MYSTIC BY "SEEING BLINDFOLD"

Houdini being blindfolded to show how the atmosphere of mystery is created by "seers" and others who are "folded" in his expose. Of course, all the blindfolding and other "stage business" is merely suncombe, he declares.

Magician shows how easy it is to read even when "blindfolded," if you know how. He says in his expose that mediums and other "rauds" use this means to cheat the gullible public of its dollars.

(Gull-edged bonds of the Pekny) Santa Railroad and the City of New York, $10,000 worth of them, negotiable and immediately convertible into cash, will soon be in the hands of Mayor Nichols' office. They represent Houdini's pledge that he is in earnest on his challenge to mediums. Houdini, "man of mystery," is conducting a startling exposure of the host of fraudulent mediums, crystal gazers, fortune tellers and others of their ilk. The second article of his service is published herewith.

My investigators who have covered this city thoroughly, reported that charms and voodoo powders supposed to bring good luck are being sold openly throughout the city. In Turkey, a law has been passed forbidding fortune tellers to operate and prohibiting all activities of sorcerers.

There is not the slightest chance of these Voodoo doctors or astrologers preventing things from happening and, when you hear of any astrologers forecasting events, the reports must be taken as a grain of salt. The forces of nature and extraordinary things require astral us to talk with my father. He said he was perfectly happy. It seemed strange to me that my father, knowing our pinched circumstances, would save such a thing. Tell's mother and I were astonished and insisted he to expose "a cruel deception to the world!"

To know their tricks and secrets becomes now; and I find free from my parents' influence, I am free to do as I please. I will not be a slave to the world, but I will be a slave to the poor and separate to the rich from thousands.

In large cities, false mediums are running wild, but a discerning man will not be deceived. And these charlatans have the finest "luckies" in the world.

Kearns to Demand Split of Dempsey-Tunney Purse

Champion's Outraged Boss to Be at Ringside With Claim for His End

THIS is the forthright chapter of Jack Kearns' thrilling story in which he repulses to the charges of Jack Dempsey.

By JACK KEARNS

As I said in my last article I'll be at the ringside to get my dough anywhere on earth that Jack Dempsey fights. He or his lawyers aren't going to kid me.

When Dempsey got back from Europe he came on to Los Angeles and we had a talk about our property holdings. He seemed to be divided in his mind as to which to be divided to control. "We were partners in a hotel and an apartment house."

It was Dempsey who made the division and we divided the holdings and each came out with a share. I told him that he could take the Chicago fight, but I would not let him take the fight with me. I would let him take the fight with me, but I would not let him take the fight with me.

Jack Kearns

He had made a deal with me, so after all, what was I to do? I was to go to New York and fight with Harry C. He said that I was to go to New York and fight with Harry C. He said that I was to go to New York and fight with Harry C.

ANYONE DOUBT CROSS

Who isn't the best of friends? I had no notion of what was in his mind. I didn't realize that he was so full of the double cross. When I got to Chicago I picked up the papers and saw a statement from him that he was going to fight for $100,000.

THE WILLIS ENIGMA

I signed Dempsey that I had signed him to meet Willis or any man Nick picked out. I sent him a long letter explaining the whole situation. After the Rickard story broke, Dempsey came out with a story in Los Angeles that he was going on to Chicago to meet Fido Fitzsimmons and other men there to sign for a match with Harry Willis.

THE WINNER? I'll don't know. Dempsey has been out a long time. He is as good as dead. He is as good as dead. He is as good as dead. He is as good as dead.

The Sport Mirror

By BIRNEY P. LYNCH

JOE MCCARTHY, brilliant boss of the Chicago Cubs, was torn with grief today as a result of the apocryphal achievement of Grover Alexander in handing his athletes a huge chunk of kalamata in the first game of yesterday's twin bill. Alex, ex-Cub, must have taken keen delight in dealing out punishment to his former chieftain, who turned him loose only a few short weeks back.

RED GRANGE and Eddie Tipton in the same backfield—that's one of the grivous libels to be presented by the pro football team.

COIN COLLECTOR PYLE, eminent manager of Red Grange, Susanne Longier and other athletic celebrities has the Hub on tenterhooks. He announced that the famous French tennis queen would play here has provoked as much comment as a heavy-weight fight billy. Pyle, a master of halcyon, has consistently refused to divulge the name of Longier's probable opponent, thus adding to the mystery of the affair.

GERMANY is making it tough for Ernest Versteck, English Channel conqueror, by threatening to deprive him of his amateur status if he accepts the challenge of Mrs. Clementine Corson or Trudy Eagle. Versteck, who had to beg his way back to the Fatherland, dead broke, after his record-breaking trip across the straits probably won't let a little thing like amateurism stand between him and the important money.

JACK DEMPSEY and Gene Tunney getting personal in their remarks concerning the ability of each other. Tunney calls attention to Dempsey's shortcomings in failure to stop Tom Gibbons in the championship fight. That sort of stuff will help pack the Excelsior stadium.

JACK KEARNS, despised manager of Dempsey, runs true to form. He will have a surprise package to open of the ringside to Philadelphia on September 28. Kearns insists he will get the percentage of Dempsey's purse and that he can't let anything stand in his way. Maybe he's paying the way to fight combat with the heavyweight king.

DEMPSEY is likely to make the good advice of Kearns when he opposes Tunney. Kearns is one of the cleverest handlers of fighters that ever surrounded a pugilist. He has been with Dempsey in all the important conflicts. The tilt with Tunney will find Jerry Lindvall, Gene Normie and Gus Wilson behind the champ.

Hikers in 62 Mile Event

The Robert A. C. of Charleston will conduct a walking contest from City Hall to Rocky Point, R. I., on Sunday evening. The start will be at midnight. Non-George E. Curran, who will start the contestants on the 62-mile hike.

Two other, large cups have been donated by the Robert A. C. and William J. Bond of Charleston. A prize of $100 will be given to the winner of either prize. A will be given to the winner of either prize.

Following are the entries received to date: J. F. Ricketts, Ralph B. Gowan, J. A. Welch, from the R. A. C. Club, South Boston; J. C. Viskary, East Boston; John Clark, Boston; Frank Lamoureux, Dorchester; C. Welch, Arlington; R. E. Smith, Chelsea; and Frank Woodricker, J. Winthrop.

William Busch, who walked from Providence to Boston on July 1 in 4 hours, 30 minutes, will represent the Seabirds.

Al Kreuz, Penn Star, Joins Ranks of Pro Footballers

Philadelphia, Sept. 3 (A.P.)—Al Kreuz, plugging fullback for the University of Pennsylvania last year, has joined the ranks of professional football players. It was announced today by Bob Falwell, coach of the Philadelphia Quakers.

Kreuz will continue his studies at the university, although ineligible to play football.

Fallwell is now signing players for his team and will take a squad of 35 men to Pine Run, Pa., September 15 to begin practice.

TUNNEY READY FOR CLANG OF GONG

FRISCH IS BACK FOR CONFLICT WITH BRAVES

By JACK KEARNS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (A.P.)—Manager Andrew has let Captain Frankie Frisch, star second baseman of the New York Giants, back into the fold at the expense of a $200 fine.

The crack infielder must also stand the loss of his salary from August 27 when he left the club in St. Louis without notice, until he re-joined the club for the game with Boston today.

Club officials announced yesterday that no further action will be taken in the case in view of the good conduct and satisfactory service of the star prior to his sudden desertion.

Frisch, in a statement shortly after his return, declared that he had been taken ill in St. Louis and had hurried home for proper care. McGraw knew the circumstances and would understand, he said, that his hurrying home would mean no loss to the team because of his physical condition.

Tunney's Record Weak Dempsey Points Out

By JACK DEMPSEY
ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 3.—Ring records are deceiving things. Gene Tunney took a few squalls at mine recently and came to the conclusion that I never whipped a really good man in my lifetime and that whenever I take on a fellow of my own size or smaller—I'm pretty much of a fool.

All of which may be right—tough to drop over in 1913. Farnham Lodge, a former sparring partner of mine, stopped Paul Simpson on a few punches—but Tunney couldn't stop him at all.

Harry Davis and Jack Remaut were former sparring partners. But Tunney couldn't knock out either. I remember correctly, Dan O'Boyle, who stood up the full distance before Tunney has been knocked out, a half-dozen times by would-be "daisies" or has been Tunney fought Ray Neumann, another of my ex-partners and didn't get much the best of that ten-round argument.

POKEY POOLS TUNNEY.
Harry Foley went ten full rounds with Tunney—who is Harry Foley? Ray Kiser went ten rounds with Tunney—who did Charlie Weber. And who are they? And who are Jimmy Delaney and Chuck Wiggins.

Tunney may be right. I feel not look so tough, judging by the records that are in the book. But the same book certainly seems to be the same old history in the matter of old statistics, that it is on my conscience. I'm sure of that.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

A well-groomed man is the new work of woman. It had not been for Eve, Adam would never have thought of the male and if it were not for woman, man would still be going around in a coat, a pair of trousers and a long hair rug, instead of in a smart suit and a pink and yellow tasset. The inventor of the safety razor, the safety razor, shaving cream and white knickers owe a mighty debt to the beauty-loving race. A woman may discard the shadow on a man's part and the shadow on a woman's part, but the shadow of a woman's chin is a cold to all his virtues and mental charms. She may overlook the softness of his spine and the flexibility of his joints, but never a willing collar or a frayed cuff. She may forgive the smooth on his character and even the powder on his cheek; but a spot on his ear or his waistcoat reveals her soul. She may not perceive the yellow streak in his nature—but a coffee stain on his shirt bosom, however pale, will amaze her eyes and deaden her romance. She may overlook the dullness of his wit or the wildness of his words; but unshined boots, run down heels and a crumpled coat reveal to her his activity, his confidence, his mental vigor. She may not notice the shadow of an unshaven chin is a cold to all his virtues and mental charms. Copyright, 1926, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

We sometimes are a fact with wit, but never with judgment. Innocence is very far from finding as much protection as crime.

Attention ideas are registered in the memory. —Locke. Benevolence is a duty. —Kant.

WHAT J. P. MEDBURY SAYS:

By John P. Medbury

THE National Association of Jewelers is trying to encourage prospective bridegrooms to wear expensive things. They want to kill one couple with two stones. THIS is a good idea, but it's the high cost of diamonds that's keeping a lot of men from falling in love. THEY can't afford to mix romance with jewelry. YOU can give a girl your heart, but she isn't satisfied. She wants something that will show. A MAN'S fiancée like to wear something on her finger by words of wise men. Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy. —Emerson. He that accuses all, convicts only one. —Burke. Put not your trust in money, but put your money in trust. —Holmes. There are but two families in the world, "the haves" and "the have nots." —Kosuth. The unspoken word never does harm. —Shakespeare. Too swift arrives as tardy as too slow. Little said is soonest remembered. —Cicero.

(pronounced rah-noo)—It's the original place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I won't let all my bolts and nuts from that time on I became the cuttin' bolt and nut. Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. It immediately gets its application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-equalled ointment. (Signed) Wm. J. Clears away itching rash in two days

Use Resinol ointment for all kinds of skin ite

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 4.—On July 20, 1917, just before I was called to service in France, I was advised by my druggist to use Resinol Ointment for a rash which I had on my arm. It relieved the itching and the rash was gone in two days. Later I wrote a friend of mine who, while suffering from some kind of skin trouble, we all agreed that it was the stuff for anything like a breaking out. When in France I had a bunch of bolts that nothing seemed to cure until I had the doctor fix the little place up (after a treatment with a knife) with Resinol. Needless to say, I won't let all my bolts and nuts from that time on I became the cuttin' bolt and nut. Since coming home I have used a great many jars of Resinol and I swear by it. It immediately gets its application of Resinol. It is a wonderful, non-equalled ointment. (Signed) Wm. J. Sweet, 222 So. 1st St., St. Louis.

President Coolidge, who must be informed on Europe's hostile attitude toward the United States, would not submit a suit involving a chicken house to the European Court, if it were his chicken house. He certainly will not be eager to send Uncle Sam's big interests to a foreign court packed ten to one against the United States.
